

FAVORITE SONGS

BY

Marion

ONE DAY, 40.
 HARK THE BIRDS, ..
 ROSEBUD FAIR, ..
 THE SAD SWEET LONG AGO, ..
 ALONG THE DEWY LANE, ..
 JUST AS OF OLD, ..
 PEACE, GOOD WILL, (SACRED) ..

THE THOUGHTS YOU SENT TO ME, 40.
 YEARNING, ..
 A SONG IN THE WHEAT, ..
 HE WAS BUT A VILLAGE LAD, ..
 SOME ONE, ..
 WHEN THE LADDIES ARE ALL AT SEA ..

DETROIT

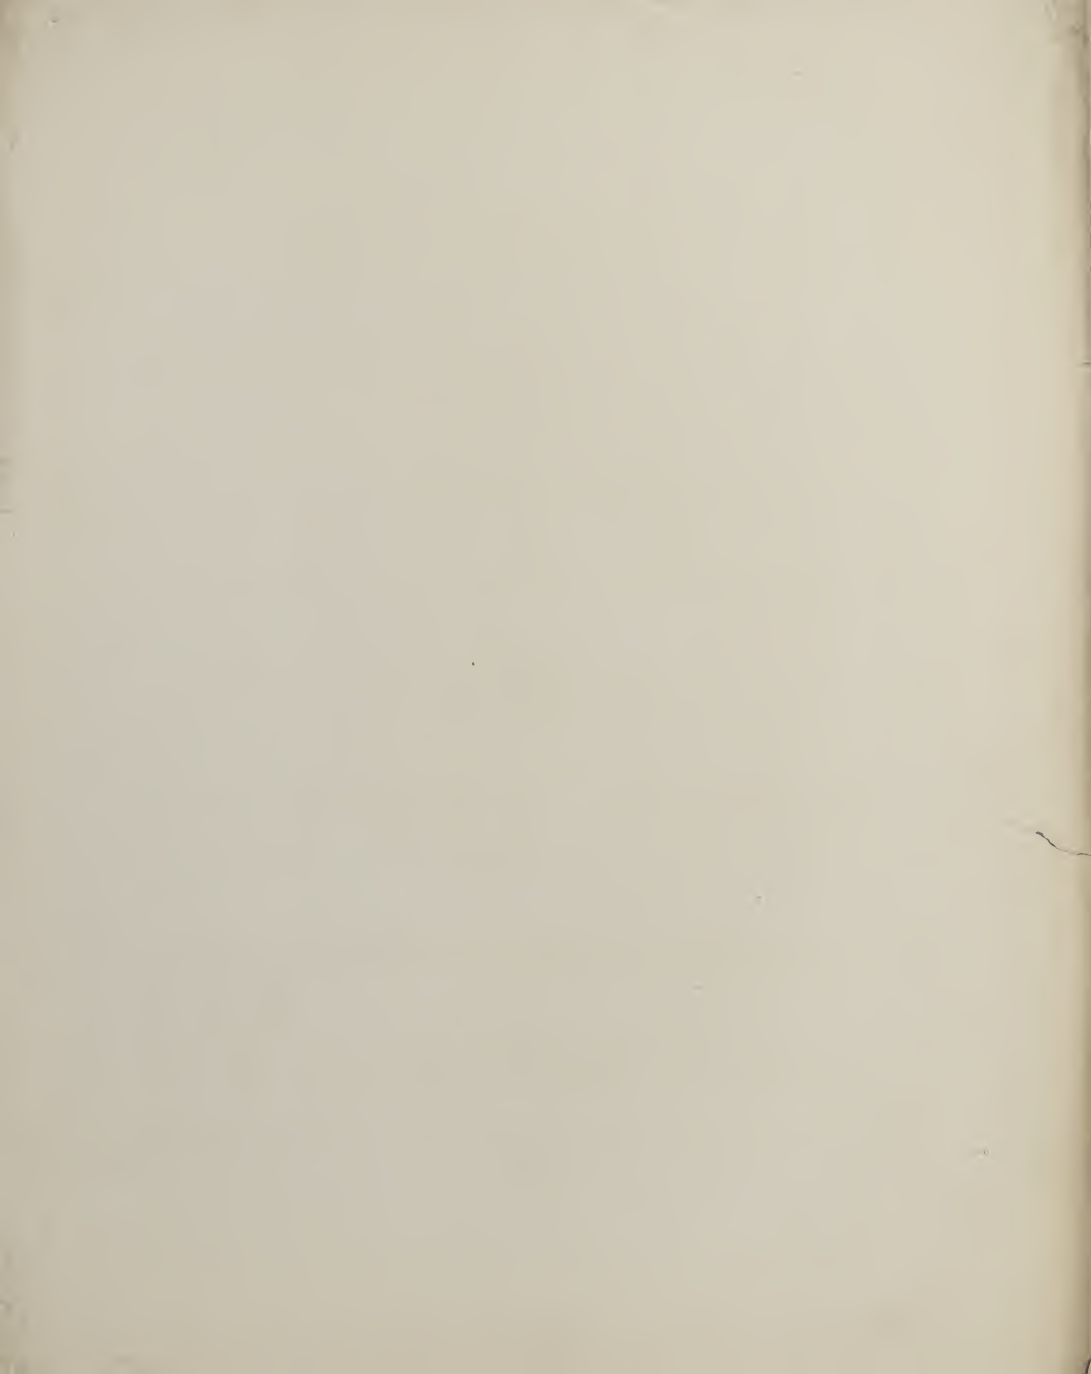

PUBLISHED BY

ROBERTSON

184 WOODWARD AVE.

SUCCESSOR TO WHITTEMORE & STEPHENS

ENTERTAINMENT ACCORDING TO ACT OF CONGRESS IN THE YEAR 1874 AND 1875, AND TO THE OFFICE OF THE EDITORIAL OF CONGRESS IN WASHINGTON

Frances G. Russell.

One Day.

BALLAD.

By MARION.

Moderato.

1. One day, one
2. One day, one

rit.

con espressione.

day, I said un-to the sea: "O, sad sea, O, dark sea, Wonderful, roll-ing day, I said un-to the sea: "O, bright sea, O, loved sea, Beautiful, shin-ing

rit.

sea! Toss-ing the spray, in mer-ci-less play, Will you nev-er have pi-ty on me?" But the sea! Toss-ing the spray, so gent-ly to-day, You have sure-ly had pi-ty on me!" For my sea no an-swer made; And the dark waves rose so high; Back from the spray I turned me away, To sail - or came a - gain, From a - cross the roll - ing tide, Bringing the gems he promised to me, And

rit.
 watch, and wait, and sigh.
 ling'ring by my side. One
 The

rit. a tempo.

morn-ing in the May, 'Mid songs blithe and glad, The proud ships sailed a - way, And proud ships sail a - way, To strange lands a - far; I watch them come and go A - bore my sail-or lad. He whispered low to me, "I will come back to thee; I'll bring thee gems, my cross the harbor bar. But while the ships go by, My sail-or boy is nigh; He'll lin-ger near his rit.

own love, From o'er the roll-ing sea! O, blue wave, O, dark wave, Lift-ing your snow - y own love, For - ev - er and for aye! O, blue wave, O, dark wave, Lift-ing your snow - y rit.
a tempo primo.

poco rit. dim.
head, My sail-or will sleep in his cra-dle so deep, Till the sea gives up its dead!
head, O, dashing whitespray, I love you to-day, For ye gave me back my dead!
dim. p mp

